

The Knowing via Resonance and Harmonic Interaction

---

What is it that makes visceral recognition possible?

What is it that makes structuralism

(knowing without learning),

the concept of Claude Levi Strauss, possible?

It is resonant, harmonic, interdependent interaction:

when oscillation, vibration,

at a subconscious level,

reveals, discloses or betrays

a nature, a condition, an intent,

a character or a bearing.

Animals have it.

Animals act upon it.

Dogs growl, or attack,

or wag their tails and affectionately lick,

when they sense it.

Women feel it.

It is called intuition.

Men feel it.

It is called a hunch.

As Roger Wescott, of Drew University,

finds we have,

in all human species,

about 20 senses, not just five.

Professor Wescott describes this in his book:

The Divine Animal.

Now, we have an era,
the onset of major change,
strengthening every day.
When will you feel it?

Logic and reasoning sees the economic downtown.
Increases in violent weather
the increase in the rate of earthquakes and volcanic eruptions requires denial, rejection, suppression, in order to insist this means nothing.

The rapid extinction of species,
the loss of habitat,
the kind of event that showed itself 65 million years ago
when mammoths were found frozen, with grass and flowers
in their mouths
and dinosaurs were extinct
is ignored and is rejected as significant.

Our sun, our local star,
has increased in its magnetic intensity
by 230%, since 1901.

The curve of increase isn't linear!
In 2011, the precession of the equinoxes moves from the constellation of Pisces to Aquarius.

Our magnetic pole strength is weakening and drifting.

Pole reversals are known

from the magnetic orientation of the magma at oceanic ridges.

In 2012, our sun (from the mini-galaxy of Sagittarius) will align with the plane of the Milky Way.

The alignment of Saturn and Jupiter,
with our Sun

will shift the Barycenter [1]
(the center of mass of our solar system).

This coincides with the Mayan Calendar date:

December 21st, 2012.

We feel it.

We know it.

We want a continuation
of life as it has been.

We want an indefinite delay in consequences
so that we can regard
the delay in consequences as meaning there are no consequences.

But there is a justice of the large scheme.

We are meant to evolve.

We are faced with this need to respond to and to deploy sincerity, genuineness and integrity.

The added energy in our environment needs to find a place
to manifest, to express, to be assimilated.

We can no longer
go on with superficial embellishment
of fundamental functions
and regard that as creative.

To sustain the highly centralized pattern of production and processing and urban sprawl,
with its dependence upon transport and transport infrastructure is no longer sane.

We need to reconfigure
our society, our culture,
to a larger number of smaller centres,
much as Solari [2] has suggested.

I appeal to your sense of relatedness and connectedness to your intuition, to your visceral knowing, change as much as you can
as fast as you can
in the right direction - or face a violent future.
